CITY VOTES LICENSE BY REDUCED MARGIN

DRYS WIN FIRST AND THIRD WARD, BUT WETS CARRY ELECTION BY MAJORITY OF 219.

TOWN OF ROCK IS WET

South Janesville Saloons Safe for Another Year—Beloit and Edgerton Wet—Clinton and Janesville Town Dry.

Janesville on Tuesday voted to remain in the license column by a majority of 219. The count stood 1,615 for, 337 dry. It was an extremely close race, the net result being a pronounced gain for the drys as compared with the last vote on the license issue in 1914 when the majority was 591 for the wets.

Two wards, the first and the third, carried for no license, the former by 49 and the latter by 136. The second ward went for the wets by 35, a substantial reduction from the majority of 104 recorded three years ago. The fourth ward, the wet majority, the year's improvement on the wet majority being 257, twenty-two less than in 1914, while in the fifth the wet majority was 132, as compared with 109 at the last license vote.

Following is the detailed vote on license and no license:

Ward	Wet	Dry	Majority
First	229	229	49
Second	203	238	35
Third	208	442	136
Fourth	432	285	147
Fifth	275	143	132

Total... 1,615 337
Majority wet, 219.

There were many who looked for a much closer result, especially among the no license forces. On the other hand the vote was a disappointment to those who had wagered on a majority of 300 or over. The total vote was 2,052, a little more than a hundred less than in 1914, when there was in addition to the wet and dry contest a vigorous campaign waged for prohibition. Both sides worked assiduously to get out the vote yesterday and the total shows that they succeeded in spite of the fact that the vote at noon was below normal.

South Janesville Wet.

The town of Rock remains in the wet column by a majority of twenty-five, and the saloons at South Janesville are safe for another twelve months. There were over two hundred votes cast in the township, which shows the unusual interest in the issue by the residents of the town. Liquor forces were especially active.

Beloit and Edgerton both voted to remain wet. Beloit by a majority of 341 and Edgerton by 70. The detailed vote in Beloit was as follows:

Ward	Wet	Dry
First ward, 1st precinct	175	228
2nd precinct	253	281
Third ward, 1st precinct	254	177
2nd precinct	255	225
Fourth ward, 1st precinct	260	146
2nd precinct	234	194

Totals... 1,174 1,439
Wet majority 265.

Dry Gain for County.

The town of Janesville went dry by 29 votes, which will eliminate one saloon at Leyden, and the village of Clinton voted dry by a majority of seven, which will close four saloons. This shows a net gain for the drys in the county as a whole and considering the close majorities that the three wards carried for license indications points to a pronounced majority in Rock county for the drys when the statewide referendum vote is taken in 1918.

LEAVES ENGINE RUNNING AND CAR STARTS ON TRIP DOWN MILWAUKEE STREET

Ambrose Ryan jumped out of his Henry and ran into a store near the corner of Jackson and Water streets about 8:30 o'clock this morning. He left the engine running. A couple minutes later he was arrested on the fact that his "jit" had run away. Dashing out of the store he was just in time to see it crash into a Janesville Delivery System wagon, and previous to the collision observe the youthful driver jump on his seat, wave his arms and shout "Stop! Stop!" There was little damage. The Henry was corralled without trouble and "Brose" mounted and rode away.

There is a state law and a city ordinance against permitting automobile engines to run with nobody in the car.

MANY PAY WATER TAXES YESTERDAY AND MONDAY

Approximately one thousand dollars in water taxes were taken in yesterday and Monday by the water department office at the city hall. Monday, the opening day for payments, the office collected in excess of five hundred dollars. Yesterday the total was over four hundred. Payments without penalty may be made any time between now and April 15. The office is open Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings between seven and nine o'clock. Close to $20,000 will be paid by Janesville consumers in this period. In January, for the quarter ending 1917, a total of $18,355.84 was collected. This sum is exclusive of private hydrants, municipal departments and contractors both the flat and metered revenues.

ELECTION IS QUIET; BUT ONE ARREST; HE TELLS HE HAD BOOZE

Complaints Against Saloons Investigated Without Results—Like Draft Met Man With Sackful.

For an election day with an issue of paramount importance at stake, Janesville was exceptionally clean and quiet yesterday. The police made but one arrest. One complaint of a saloon opening was made by the "drys" and two other complaints of almost similar nature were received, but after close investigations which ran through the remaining part of the day after the charges were made, the police this morning reported that they discovered no evidence of violations. A saloonkeeper at the corner of South River street, saloonkeeper had placed several cases of beer in the alley back of his place. The cases were found, but they were empty and had been used for a period longer than several hours. The department was told that men were seen drinking bottled beer, but the investigation showed the bottles "bone dry" for once.

At noon the complaint came that the South River street saloon was open. The police found it closed and the proprietor and his barkeepers busy campaigning. Along towards the supper hour the third report came. This was that the "wets" were drinking gratis drinks from the headquarters in the old Wilson Hotel on South River street.

Nothing to incriminate the liquor association was discovered. A Boy Scouts' detachment from the "Dry Janesville" headquarters to collect empty bottles from the headquarters of the liquor interests returned empty handed.

This morning in municipal court Judge Drafiak told of drinking bottled local beer with another Janesville character and an "unknown" who extended the beer to him. Drafiak said the moisture was kept in a sack and the trio drank five or six bottles apiece in a carriage shed back of the Sheridan brewery. He professed to have no knowledge as to who the host to the drinks was and the only description he could give of the man was that he was about as tall as me.

Justice Maxfield quizzed Drafiak closely and learned who his companion was. The police claim Drafiak had a quart bottle of whiskey at his side yesterday morning, but he declared it in court. After pleading guilty to being intoxicated he was given a jail sentence of ten days flat and a fine of twenty-five dollars and costs for three days additional.

Drafiak is under indictment in municipal court for the sugar robbery early this year of the Sprague brewery. He was charged with stealing sugar from the warehouse on trial May 7. Under the sentence he will be held by the county until the day of his trial.

The local liquor dealers are under attack from the part of the "drys" of both South Janesville roadhouses to not in concert with them in eliminating any opportunity for complaint. The "drys" are light the suburban drink emporiums clamped the lid yesterday is unknown officially, but according to local saloonmen there are on tight in Janesville, at least during the morning and the afternoon.

CITY ELECTION BALLOTS CANVASED ON THURSDAY

It was announced by Mayor Fathers at the city hall this morning that in all probability the results of yesterday's municipal election of voters would be canvassed tomorrow afternoon. As there were but two contests on in the city, the license question and the selection of a school commissioner, the canvassing was not a complicated matter. It is practically certain the results will be the same as those tabulated by the Gazette at the closing of the polls last evening.

Safe Home Remedy for Skin-Troubles

Eczema, ringworm, and other itching, burning skin eruptions are so easily made worse by improper treatment that one has to be very careful. There is one method, however, that you need never hesitate to use, even on a baby's tender skin—that is the resinol treatment. Resinol is the prescription of a famous doctor, put up in the form of resinol ointment and resinol soap. This proved so remarkably successful, that thousands of other physicians have prescribed it constantly for over twenty years.

Generally, resinol stops itching at once, and leads the eruption quickly and at little cost. Resinol ointment and resinol soap can be bought at any druggist's.

He reached up and took her in his arms. She lay upon his breast, thrilling happily with her nearness to him, and they remained so for a while, whispering now and then, trying ineffectually to voice the thoughts that needed no expression.

"Why did you let me sleep so long?" he asked her, reproachfully.

"Oh, I've been napping there in that chair, where I could keep one eye on you. I'm terribly selfish; I can't bear to lose one minute." After a while she said: "I've made a discovery. Father O'Malley snores dreadfully. Juanito never heard anything like it, and it frightened him nearly to death. He says the father must be a very fierce man to growl so loudly. He says, too, that he likes me much better than his mother."

It seemed to Dave that the bliss of this awakening and the sweet intimacy of this one moment more rewarded him for all he had gone through.

"I've been busy, too," she was saying. "I sent Juan to the village to learn the news, and it's not very nice. It's good we stopped here. He says Nuevo Pueblo has been destroyed, and the federal forces are all moving south, away from the border. So our troubles aren't over yet. We must reach the river tonight."

"Yes, by all means."

"Juan is going with us as guide."

"You arranged everything while I snoozed, eh? I'm ashamed of myself."

Alaire nodded, then pretended to frown darkly. "You ought to be," she told him.

"My wife!" He laid his lips against her hair.

They were standing beside the window, speechless, oblivious to all except their great love, when Dolores entered to tell them that supper was ready and that the horses were saddled.

CHAPTER XXV.

The Dawn.

Juan Garcia proved to be a good guide, and he saved the refugees many miles on their road to the Rio Grande. But every farm and every village was a menace, and at first they were forced to make numerous detours. As the night grew older, however, they rode a straighter course, urging their horses to the limit, hoping against hope to reach the border before daylight overtook them. This they might have done had it not been for Father O'Malley and Dolores, who were unused to the saddle and unable to maintain the pace Juan set for them.

About midnight the party stopped on the crest of a flinty ridge to give their horses breath and to estimate their progress. The night was fine and clear; outlined against the sky were the stalks of countless sorot-plants standing stiff and bare, like the upright lances of an army at rest; ahead the road mounted across a mesa, covered with gramin grass and black, formless bits of scrubbery.

Father O'Malley groaned and shifted his weight. "Juan tells me we'll never reach Romero by morning, at this rate," he said; and Dave was forced to agree. "I think you and he and Alaire had better go on and leave Dolores and me to follow as best we can."

Dolores plaintively seconded this suggestion. "I would rather be burned at the stake than suffer these agonies," she confessed. "My bones are broken. The devil is in this horse." She began to weep softly. "Go, senora. Save yourself! It is my incurable stomach that hinders me. Tell Benito that I perished breathing his name, and see to it, when he remarries, that he retains none of my treasures."

Alaire reassured her by saying: "We won't leave you. Be brave and make the best of it."

"Yes, grit your teeth and hold on," Dave echoed. "We'll manage to make a somehow."

But progress was far slower than it should have been, and the elder woman continued to lag behind, voicing her distress in groans and lamentations. The priest, who was made of sterner stuff, did his best to bear his tortures cheerfully.

In spite of their efforts the first rosy herald of dawn discovered them still a long way from the river and just entering a more thickly settled country.

Daylight came swiftly, and Juan finally gave them warning.

"We can't go on; the danger is too great," he told them. "If the soldiers are still in Romero, what then?"

"Have you no friends hereabouts who would take us in?" Dave inquired.

The Mexican shook his head.

Dave considered for a moment. "You must hide here," he told his companions, "while I ride on to Romero and see what can be done. I suspect Blanco's troops have left, and in that case everything will be all right."

"Suppose they haven't?" Alaire inquired. All night she had been in the lightest of moods, and had steadily refused to take their perils seriously. Now her smile chased the frown from her husband's face.

"Well, perhaps I'll have breakfast with them," he laughed.

"Silly. I won't let you go," she told him, firmly; and, reading the expression in her face, he felt a dizzy wonder. "We'll find a nice secluded spot; then we'll sit down and wait for night to come. We'll pretend we're having a picnic."

Dolores sighed at the suggestion. "That would be heaven, but there can be no sitting down for me."

Garcia, who had been standing in his stirrups scanning the long, flat road ahead, spoke sharply: "Caramba! Here come those very soldiers now! See!"

Far away, but evidently approaching at a smart gallop, was a body of mounted men. After one look at them Dave cried:

"Into the brush, quick!" He hurried his companions ahead of him, and when they had gone perhaps a hundred yards from the road he took Juan's repeater, saying: "Hide in a little way farther and wait. I'm going back. If you hear me shoot, break for the river. Ride hard and keep under cover as much as possible." Before they could remonstrate he had wheeled Montross and was gone.

This was luck, he told himself. Ten miles more and they would have been safe, for the Rio Grande is not a difficult river either to ford or to swim. He dismounted and made his way on foot to a point where he could command a view, but he had barely established himself when he found Alaire at his side.

"Go back," he told her. But she would not, and so they waited together.

There were perhaps a dozen men in the approaching squad, and Dave saw that they were heavily armed. They rode fast, too, and at their head galloped a large man under a wide-brimmed felt hat. It soon became evident that the soldiers were not uniformed. Therefore, Dave reckoned, they were not federalists, but more probably some rebel scouting band from the south, and yet—He rubbed his eyes and stared again.

Dave pressed forward eagerly, incredulously; the next instant he had broken cover with a shout. Alaire was at his side, clapping her hands and laughing with excitement.

The cavalcade halted; the big man tumbled from his saddle and came straddling through the high grass, waving his hat and yelling.

"Blaze! You old scoundrel!" Dave cried, and seized one of the ranchman's palms while Alaire shook the other.

"Say! We're right glad to see you all," Jones exclaimed. "We reckoned you might be havin' a sort of unpleasantness with Longorio, so we organized and came to get you."

The other horsemen were crowding close now, and their greetings were noisy. There were the two Guzman boys, Benito Gonzalez, Phil Strange, and a number of Jonesville's younger and more adventurous citizens.

In the midst of the tumult Benito inquired for his wife, and Dave relieved his anxiety by calling Dolores and Father O'Malley. Then, in answer to the questions showered upon him, he swiftly sketched the story of Alaire's rescue and their flight from La Feria.

When he had finished Blaze Jones drew a deep breath. "We're mighty glad you got out safe, but you've kicked the legs from under one of my pet ambitions. I sure had planned to nail Longorio's hide on my barn door. Yes, and you've taken the bread out of the mouths of the space writers and sob sisters from here to Hudson's Bay. Miz Austin, your picture's in every newspaper in the country, and believe me, it's the worst atrocity of the war."

"War?" Father O'Malley had joined the group now, and he asked, "Has war been declared?"

"Not yet, but we've got hopes." To Alaire Blaze explained: "Ellsworth's in Washington, wavin' the Stars and Stripes and singin' battle hymns, but I reckon the government figures that the original of these newspaper pictures would be safe anywhere. Well, we've got our own ideas in Jonesville, so some of us assembled ourselves and declared war on our own hook. These gentlemen—Blaze waved his hand proudly at his neighbors—constitute the Jonesville Guards, the finest body of American men that has invaded Mexican soil since me and Dave went after Ricardo Guzman's remains. Blamed if I ain't sorry you sidetracked our expedition."

It was evident, from the words of the others, that the Jonesville Guards were indeed quite as heedless of international complications as was their commander. One and all were highly incensed at Longorio's perfidy, and, had Alaire suggested such a thing, it was patent that they would have ridden on La Feria and exacted a reckoning from him.

Such proof of friendship affected her deeply, and it was not until they were all under way back toward Romero that she felt she had made her appreciation fully known. When she reflected that these men were some of the very neighbors whom she had shunned and slighted, and whose honest interest she had so habitually misconstrued all these years, it seemed very strange that they should feel the least concern over her. It gave her a new appreciation of their civility and their worth; it filled her with a humble desire to know them better and to strengthen herself in their regard. Then, too, the esteem in which they held Dave—her husband—gratified her intensely. It made no more difference to them than to her that he was a poor man, a man without authority or position; they evidently saw and loved in him the qualities which she saw and loved. And that was as it should be.

WILL ATTEMPT TO SAVE INDIANA'S SAND DUNES

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Warning as to Our Waning Vitality

(By Lee Herbert Smith, M. D.)

In urging upon the country the observance of last Dec. 6 as "Medical Examination Day," the Life Extension Institute issued a circular in which it called attention to the reasons why every man should take stock of his physical condition just as frequently as he takes stock of his financial condition, thereby learning spots and taking measures to repair them before it is too late.

In the spring is the best time to take stock of one's condition. If the blood is thin and watery, face pale or pimply, generally weak, tired and listless, one should take a spring tonic. One that will do the spring housecleaning, an old-fashioned herbal remedy that was used by everybody nearly 50 years ago is still safe and sane because it contains no alcohol or narcotic. It is made up of blood root, Golden Seal root, Stone root, Grape root, Queen's Seal root, Oregon Grape root, and made into liquid or tablets.

This blood tonic was first put out by Dr. Pierce in ready-to-use form and since then has been sold by million bottles as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If druggist does not keep this in tablet form, send $1.00 to Doctor V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Kidney disease carries away a large percentage of our people. What is to be done? The answer is easy: Eat less meat, eat coarse, plain food, with plenty of vegetables, drink plenty of water between meals, and take an uric acid solvent after meals for awhile, such as Anuric (double strength), obtainable at almost any drug store. It was first discovered by Dr. Pierce. Most every one troubled with uric acid finds that Anuric dissolves the uric acid as hot water does sugar.—Advertisement.

Dinner Stories

An employe of a real estate office had been sent by the house agents to make an inventory of the drawing room furniture of a mansion in their hands.

"It was so long about the task that at last the woman of the house went to see what was taking place. She found the man slumbering sweetly on a sofa with an empty bottle beside him. It was evident, however, that he had made a pathetic attempt to do his work, for in the inventory book was written:

"One revolving carpet."

Little Muffington was a father for the first time, and nothing existed in his world save wife and baby. It was the other morning that, just as he had opened his desk somewhere in the city, the phone bell rang.

"You're wanted, sir," shouted the wartime office girl.

Rushing to the phone, he grabbed the receiver.

"Yes, dear, what is it?"

"Oh, Cuthbert, dear, come at once! Baby is—"

He waited to hear no more. Flinging down the receiver, he seized his hat and rushed into the street. Within half a minute he was being whirled in a taxi to the suburb where all his hopes were centered. His face was lined with anxiety as he burst into the house and ran upstairs three steps at a time.

"Here am, darling!"

"Oh, you're late, Cuthbert. Baby had his little toe in his mouth, and he looked so pretty. I wanted you to see him."

The Constable (to townsman who has been knocked down by motorist)—You didn't see the number, but you could swear to the man?

The Townsman—I did, but I don't think he heard me.

ENGLISH SOLDIERS REPORTED DEAD CAN'T COLLECT BACK PAY

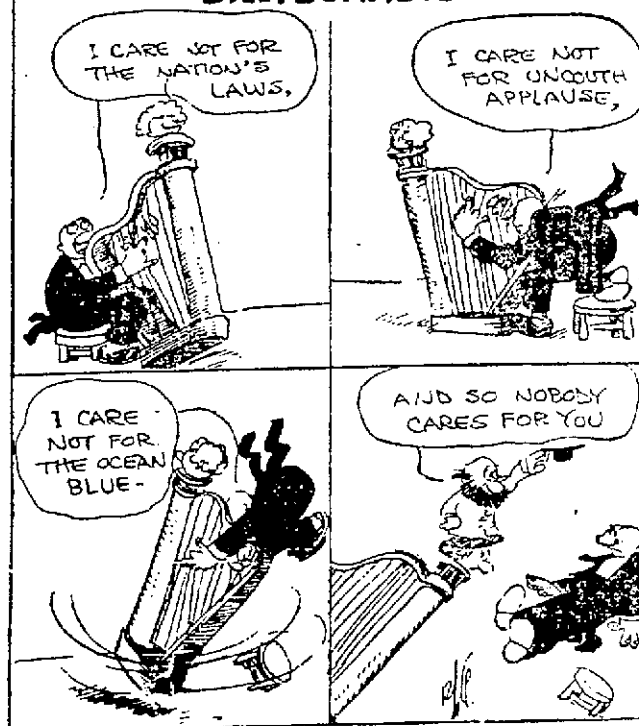

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

London, April 4.—The latest group of British prisoners returned from Germany includes three dead soldiers that is, men who were long ago officially reported dead and have been so entered in the records of the war office. For a fortnight three soldiers have been paying daily visits to the Whitehall in an endeavor to persuade the government that they are alive and entitled to collect their back pay. The war office declares they are dead and as far as the payrolls are concerned and must remain so. Only a special grant from parliament can improve their situation.

POULTRY and GARDEN

LETTERS ADDRESSED TO THIS DEPARTMENT SHOULD ENCLOSE 2c STAMP
IF BY MAIL OTHER THAN THROUGH THESE COLUMNS IS DESIRED

Crow Where the Sun Shines.
The south or southwest side of a house is the best place for a poultry house. It should be protected from the north and west winds and still the full benefit of the sun's heat. The full built of two-inch boards, with a space of one inch between them, is the best for the north side and the south side. The standard width of the house is six feet, but it may be made any width. The height should be from eight to ten feet. The house should be made of wood, but it may be made of brick or concrete. The house should be made of wood, but it may be made of brick or concrete. The house should be made of wood, but it may be made of brick or concrete.

The only heat that the cold frame can conserve as much as the sun, so that it is possible to grow the sides and ends of the frame are therefore banked with earth or manure and the frame is covered at night with burlap or old carpet, or even marsh heat to start the seeds in boxes. The kitchen window about the middle of March. Any box two and a half or three inches deep will do. The soil should be made up of equal parts of good mold or well rotted manure and garden loam is used. These materials are not available in soil which does not bake with the sun and may be used if the plants are transplanted soon after they come up. The soil should be sifted before it is put in the box. The coarse screenings are put in the bottom of the box and the fine soil on top. The box should be covered with a layer of straw or burlap. The box should be covered with a layer of straw or burlap. The box should be covered with a layer of straw or burlap.

Putting in the Seed.
The surface of the soil is smoothed and then the seeds are sown in drills or broadcast. The former method is preferable because the plants come up more evenly. Make the drills one-half inch apart and one-fourth inch deep. From ten to twelve seeds should be sown to the inch of row. The drills are closed by pressing in the soil and the seed box is then watered. The watering out of the seeds should be prevented by covering the soil with a piece of burlap cloth, letting the water soak in through the burlap. Enough moisture in the soil, but not enough to make it soggy or muddy. Do not water again until the top soil is dry.

Early April Transplanting.
In two or three weeks, or during the first week in April, the seedlings will have their first true leaves developed and they should then be transplanted into the cold frame. They are set two inches apart. They may be transplanted into other plant boxes or into the soil in the frame. If the seed is started in the frame, it may be sown about the 25th of March. The same as described for the kitchen window, excepting that very little watering is necessary. The frame should be ventilated every bright day by changing the air and sliding down the cross bar for a distance of five or six inches or it may be propped up with a block of wood.

Making Plants "Tough."
Before the plants are ready to set in the garden, they should be "thaned" so as to withstand the possible adverse weather and soil conditions. Plants are hardened by withholding water and exposing them to outdoor conditions. Just enough water is given to keep them from withering, but air is admitted freely every day. After four or five days the plants are removed entirely. Muskmelon plants are started the latter part of April or about six weeks before they are to be set. They must be started in berry boxes or pieces of sod because they cannot stand having their roots disturbed in transplanting.

Balanced Rations.

Our wife has been balanced ration bug. You know what that means. It means that you have to swallow as much of one thing as you do of another so your stomach won't get lopsided.

You realize as well as we do that if you get a pound of spinach on the left side of your little Mary and only half a pound of mashed potato on the right side your portico's bound to sag on one corner.

But there's nothing new about the balanced ration. It's old stuff. We can remember when we were a little boy, seeing our Uncle William indulging in his balanced ration down on the farm. The only difference was that while our wife had aces ours on a sliding scale of vitamins, calories and scale of knife.

We have customers who have taken them for twenty years or more and would not be without them.

One trial will convince you.

WISCONSIN HOPES FOR BALL HONORS

Forty Men Are Out for Practice and War Declaration Will Have Little Effects on Schedule.

Madison, Wis., April 4.—About forty men are reported daily to Coach "Bill" Lewis for baseball practice, in spite of the war crisis. The Badger coach has made the announcement that if war is declared all games will be canceled. This statement seems to have little effect on the players, who are confident the games will be played. Coach Lewis with a team of players, however, it is because of the excellent material from which he is planning on building a winning combination.

The workouts are being held on the lower campus, this giving the men a better opportunity of getting into shape. Yesterday, in spite of the cold weather, a few indoor games were staged between the first team and the reds. The pitching displayed was very encouraging to the Badger coach. Lanchhoff, Schneider and Grassie all performed in fine fashion and should develop into first class men before the season is well under way.

Captain Fox is bearing the heavy part of the coaching, although there is a possibility that he will be sent to the outfield and Barker placed at the catcher's position. Fox is the best hitter on the team, while Barker is a catcher of no little ability. Ever Simpson is playing shortstop and is doing the man left vacant by the graduation of Peterson. Simpson has played first base last season, but he has now found his regular place on the diamond and is working well. Herb Crumey, varsity football man, seems to have the call on the first base candidates because of his experience. He is a good fielder but is weak with the bat. "Poke" Grennan, veteran of last season, will again play second base. He has fully recovered from an injured ankle received during the basketball season and is favoring the Keystone sack in a lively fashion. Cleveland, captain of the freshman team of last spring, is playing well at third base and with some training should be able to fill the position of last season.

In the choice of men in the outfield Coach Lewis is having plenty of trouble. Not one veteran of last season is on hand to act as a nucleus for the outfielders. Reese, who has been declared ineligible by the State Life and Insurance Committee, is practicing daily and may be able to return to his old place in the left garden. Ross and Snow are playing good games, but are weak with the stick.

MORRIS MILLER

Jack Barry, as manager of the Red Sox, is on trial, and baseball fans all over the country are waiting to learn how he will fill the shoes of William Carrigan, now retired. Strange to say, the Athletics never have turned down Barry, who has been successful team leader. Harry Davis failed at the head of the Cleveland Indians and Tony Hartwell did not succeed as manager of the Athletics. Eddie Collins has assumed the leadership of the White Sox and Ira Thomas always has been satisfied to do scouting duty. Jack Coombs may be an exception to the rule some day when he no longer can pitch for the Robins. He is popular with the Boston players and is taking hold of a ready-made pennant winner. But whether he can equal the record of Carrigan is a question that cannot be answered here.

Former stars of the defunct Federal league are few in number as far as the majors are concerned. Those who will wear uniforms in the National league this year are Earl Furlan and Anderson of the Giants; Knickerbocker, Allen and Reulbach of the Braves; Cooper of the Phillies; Flack, Deal, Zeider, Prendergast, Hendrix, Packard, Neekes, Mann and Wilson of the Cubs; Fischer of the Pirates; and Chase, Roush, McKechnie, Egan, Knetzer and Moseley of the Reds. In the American league the names of the stars are Mager and Outley of the Yankees; and Ward Miller, Marsans, E. Johnson, Hartley, Paul, Davoren and Groom of the St. Louis Browns—thirty-two in all.

PADDY LIVINGSTON, VETERAN CATCHER,
JUST CAN'T BE KEPT OUT OF THE MAJORS

Paddy Livingston.

Paddy Livingston, veteran catcher, simply can't be kept in the minor leagues. Every once in a while it looks like Paddy is through as a big leaguer, but he's sure to come back. Last season he caught for Sioux City in the Western league and batted 300 with many extra base hits. And now the St. Louis Cardinals have signed him up for next season.

Scott Eddie Herr of the St. Louis Cardinals grounds every time he reads of the good work Swede Risberg is doing with the Chicago White Sox. For Herr wanted the Cardinal club to draft Risberg in the fall of 1915, but the Sox refused to let him go. Herr declared Risberg to be one of the greatest all around players in the game. In fact, to hear him tell it, the Swede is a right-handed George Sisler.

There are funny turns in connection with the St. Louis Browns and Cardinals. First the Cards grab Branch Rickey from the Browns and then the Browns grab the Cards' manager, Eddie Collins. Then the Browns signed him to their team from Hot Wells and started it north, then Manager Fielder Jones, who had been wandering around in Texas looking for a place to finish conditioning, pounced upon the place just deserted by the Cardinals.

Christy Mathewson is a free agent as an author. The injunction of the Wheeler Newspaper Syndicate, which claimed exclusive title to his services, was refused by a New York court. Mathewson set up that his agreement was to collaborate with John N. Wheeler in a series of newspaper articles, but that when Wheeler left the syndicate that still bore his name the agreement was canceled. The court took that view of it and now Christy can write as his muse dictates.

Jimmy Viox, former Pirate second baseman, who was released to the Toronto International league club and later sold to the Kansas City Blues, is destined for a job in the outfield with Manager Ganzel's club, according to the rope emanating from Arkadelphia, Ark., where the team is training. Jimmy since leaving the Buccaneers has been shifter around considerably at various positions, both in the infield and outfield. While with Toronto he worked in the outfield as a regular and made a good impression with the management.

The Red Sox and the Dodgers are traveling de luxe on their spring tour. Their special train is made up of six Pullmans and a baggage car. There are eighty people in the party. Of this lot forty-four claim Boston allegiance, the rest being destined to

STAGE LAST FIGHT
ON DRY REFERENDUM
IN HOUSE THURSDAY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., April 4.—The last fight to be made on the Evjue bill in the house is billed to come up Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. The measure passed the assembly on last Thursday by a vote of 56 to 57. Assemblyman John F. Donnelly, Milwaukee, who opposed the passage of the bill on the floor, changed his vote so as to be recorded with the majority, and on last Friday moved a reconsideration of the vote. By agreement the matter was placed on the calendar for Thursday. Because of the Donnelly motion, Assemblyman Charles D. Rosa, Beloit, moved a reconsideration of the vote by which the house killed the Edwards bill for the closing of saloons in the rural districts at eleven o'clock at night and prohibiting their reopening until six o'clock the following morning.

If the Evjue bill is kept in the assembly much longer by these motions for delay, it is up to the legislature to amend the Edwards bill so as to include all saloons in the state and close them all at 11 o'clock, said Assemblyman Rosa today.

The people of this state are asking the privilege of voting on the question of licensing liquor. If this is to be denied, some further control over the saloons should be sought.

Many of the members of the legislature paired on the bill before leaving last week for home. It is the opinion of some of the members, however, that a call of the house may be necessary to get all of the members back to again vote on the question. Both sides appear active today in the effort to bring up all of the supporters and opponents of the measure back for a vote.

The Evjue bill was introduced in the legislature on January 24. It was reported for action in the house on March 16.

DRUNKENNESS CONVICTIONS ON DECREASE IN ENGLAND

London, April 4.—The number of convictions for drunkenness in Great Britain continues to decline. Returns for forty cities with population over 100,000, including London, show the number of men convicted in 1916 was 55,000, as compared with 57,500 in the previous year, while the number of women convicted in 1916 was 24,000, against 25,000 in 1915.

NEW YORK READY FOR BILLY SUNDAY

New York, April 4.—Billy Sunday's giant tabernacle is all ready for him to start his fight on the Devil and New York at Broadway and 168th Street next Sunday morning. Every citizen, large and small, every working girl, every boy, every laborer, every scrubwoman, has been told of Sunday's coming. Thousands of them have been organized into bible classes, personal workers, singers and other assistants to the redoubtable Billy.

This New York campaign is expected to be Sunday's triumph of his worst tumble from the pedestal of evangelism. New York awaits him without much to say. It is incredibly curious to see what he looks like and how he acts.

Broadway and Boozie have paid little attention to him. He may stir up a fight with the Great White Way after he gets started though.

Among his most ardent supporters and financial aids here is John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Mrs. Rockefeller. Sunday has said he will be a bit tamer here with his slang and his slams than elsewhere. New York wonders why. It rather expected him to tear loose and go the limit and over. But Sunday says slang is out of use mostly now and he thinks there are a few good theaters and cabaret restaurants too.

Billy has promised to turn his tabernacle into a big recruiting station. His son, George M. Sunday, will join the aviation corps, he says.

EXPECT TO MOBILIZE
THE NAVAL MILITIA

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Lake Buft, Ill., April 4.—Preparations were being made at the Great Lakes naval training station today in anticipation of the expected mobilization here of the naval militia of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, Michigan and Missouri. Orders were placed for 5,000 additional cots and 1,000 tents, and arrangements were being made to quarter between 5,000 and 7,500 men. The situation given recruiting recently by the national crisis has brought recruits to the station at the rate of about sixty a day, and as a result it has been necessary to house several hundred of them under canvas.

PLAN NO OFFENSIVE ON THE RIGA FRONT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Copenhagen, via London, April 4.—A "personage" who is easily recognizable as Colonel Von Haast of the general staff, in charge of the military department of the foreign office, has informed the Politiken that there is no prospect of a German offensive on the Riga front. The colonel says: "The spring thaw is enough in itself to deprive an offensive of any chance of success. Artillery and supplies would be hopelessly bogged." Colonel Von Haast also doubts whether Field Marshal Von timmerburg contemplates an offensive on the Riga front. The colonel says: "The statements of the German general staff are another example of German determination to quiet Russian apprehension. The belief is cherished that the Russians, if left to themselves, will continue to quarrel over internal questions, whereas the morale of a strong German offensive would weld all the Russian parties together."

BELOIT STUDENTS READY
SHOULD WAR CALL COME

Beloit, Wis., April 4.—Preparation is a watchword at Beloit college. Military training is booming. A voluntary signal corps has been organized and is actively preparing for government examinations. Girls of the college are taking the first aid course, which has been put into the college course with instructions by Beloit physicians.

DURABILITY

One thing that adds excess value and life to the Series 18 TOUR and SIX is the special steels used in the manufacture, made to Studebaker's own specifications especially for Studebaker cars.

Another is the scientific heat treatment of vital parts, like gears, axles, axle shafts, etc., which makes them stronger, longer-wearing, and permits lighter weight with increased strength.

A third is the absolute accuracy of Studebaker manufacturing processes, and the resulting perfect fit and alignment of all parts, and perfect balance of motor parts and the entire car, reducing friction and wear to the very lowest point.

This is why Studebaker Cars "stand up," give continuous service month after month, year after year, with low upkeep cost. This is why Studebaker in the end is one of the most economical cars in the world to buy.

Come in and let us give you a demonstration.

FATIMA

Why they're Sensible

OCCASIONALLY, a more heavy, full-powered cigarette than Fatima tastes mighty good. But heavy cigarettes are a little too "oily" and rich to suit most men for long. You are certain to find more comfort in a delicately balanced blend like Fatima—a comfort that can come only from pure tobaccos perfectly blended. That is why Fatimas are so sensible—because they leave a man feeling keen and fit even after smoking more often than usual. Prove it yourself.

Author's Prefatory Note—Not more than a thousand

The Janesville Daily Gazette, April 4, 1877.—The firm of Robinson & Reed, late of the Davis house, has been dissolved by mutual consent.

The other day Mrs. Burr Robbins received a package for her at the ex-gambler's office. It proved to be an elegant, large and massive coffee urn, a present from Mr. McCue, treasurer of the Courier Printing company of Buffalo.

Tuesday evening a tramp broke into a house on South Main street, by breaking the lock of the rear door, and took an overcoat, leaving his own, a pair of pants, a shirt and five dollars in money; and then made his escape. He was seen making his way toward Emerald Grove.

Last night an affair occurred between Daniel Scanlan and Thomas Dorsey, about which there is considerable discrepancy in statements. It was reported on the streets this morning that Scanlan had shot Dorsey, and that the shot had proved fatal. Other reports have it that Dorsey was not hurt at all, though a pistol was shot in the fracas; and still another report is current that it is not known which did the firing. The facts are, however, that a quarrel rose between the two men somewhere in the neighborhood of Canary's, in which each got a pounding—Scanlan coming out pretty well worsted. No arrests have yet been made.
